receive from me:

The undersigned inspectors of provisions certify that about the 20th day of May, 1884, we inspected for use of U. S. Navy and packed as per requisition one hundred barryle. Navy Mess Pork for order and account of Mr. A. P. Brown and delivered same to Brooklyn Yard. This pork was packed by Gusdorf Bros. of Fremont. Ohio, in the months of November and December, 1883. We also repacked and inspected on the 8th of July thirty barrels Family Mess Pork, packed by the same abovenamed parties, at the same identical dates, thirteen of which were sent to the same yard and afterward returned to us as old and rusty. Having re-examined critically this pork, we aver the packing as above represented and that it is bright and sound and will keep equal to any pork. WARD & CO. Inspectors.

The above pork was idealical with thirty (30) barrels mess, repacked, inspected and delivered to Navy-Yard, July 8, by order Messrs. Rossiter & Skidmere. WARD & CO.

The observation of Mr. Howells that "genius, after all, is only patient application," is true only of the piodding kind; and it is questionable if that has in it much of the "divine spark." Patient application did not make Napoleon a military genius before he was thirty; nor did it constitute Burns a poet, Beethoven a great composer, Raphael an artist, or Pitt a statesman at twentyfive. All men who accomplish great things must apply themselves, and often "toll terribly," but genius exists before the disposition or the ability to work can manifest itself. It is a gift of God, and, though it may be developed, it cannot be made,—[Boston Herald.
